LAST DAY.

The third and closing day of the exhibition was not less successful than the two which had preceded it, either as to attendance of visitors or favorable weather. 2. Overture ..... "Couronne D'or," Hermann.
3. Valse ..... "Mikado," Bucolossi.
4. Selection ..... "La Traviata," Verdi.
5. Valse ..... "Joys of Life," Coote.
6. Overture ..... "Golden Hire," Brepsant.

The music of the Victoria band was highly appreciated during the three days of the exhibition, and although there was no band competition, the first prize was awarded to the Victoria, the directors being of opinion that it was deserving of the honor.

CASUAL NOTES.

The President of the Society, N. Shakespeare, M. P., has not the faculty of being in two places at the same time, but during the three days of the fair he came very nearly achieving what Sir Boyle Roche said was impossible to any person barring a bird. His ability, and phenomenal urbanity under an unremitting stream of questions and a fusilade of complaints, could not have been surpassed by Mark Tapley, who was in every place he was wanted, and was serenely happy under all circumstances.

The right man was put in the right place when Mr. T. Russell was made Secretary. The comparative smoothness of the working out of the details, and the absence of mistakes, in a large measure, are attributed to his constant supervision, quick perception and practical knowledge of the duties of the office. The writer, to use a common expression, "has been there," and acquired a pretty accurate conception of the qualifications required for the office. The ability to return a quick and courteous reply to an imperative and often an idle question, to give back smile for frown, to keep the judges straight and the exhibitors from blundering, and to answer, at one and the same time, a dozen interrogations on as many different subjects—that is a successful secretary. Mr. Russell can do it all and not half try.

The association has been extremely fortunate this year in having for its treasurer so able and so affable an officer as Mr. William Dalby, who since the inception of the organization has taken the greatest of interest in the success of the scheme. Always cool and deliberate his decisions on points in dispute have invariably given the amplest satisfaction. He is indeed a wise and a judicious counsellor, and an indefatigable officer, laboring zealously for the success and advancement of the aims and objects the association has in view.

Each of the other officers and directors are worthy of notice, especially the Vice-President, Mr. W. H. Ladner, M. P. P., who has not spared himself in the management of the department under his control. The retiring directors are Messrs. E. Greyell and A. C. Wells, Chilliwhack; Adam Innes, Langley; Geo. Black, Burrard Inlet; Hugh Boyd, North Arm; J. Shopland, D. W. Higgins and C. E. Renouff, Victoria; J. D. Bryant, South Saanich; and they have performed their duties well.

Mr. T. J. Partridge was the man of all work, and was irrepressible and indispensable. The supervision of the work of arranging exhibits in the hall, ticketing and attaching the prize cards devolved upon him, and it is not too much to say that he performed the arduous duty expeditiously and correctly. Like the Richardson, he was ubiquitous, only more so.

The ladies of the W. C. T. U. presiding at the dining booth, fed all who patronized the establishment, and at a moderate price. Their table was well patronized, especially during Friday and Saturday, and the union's fund was thereby considerably increased.

Unfortunately several parcels intended for exhibition arrived in the city on Friday—too late to be entered. A basket of eight potatoes, grown on the ranche of R. McLeese, M. P. P., Soda Creek, for this season was not shown. The average weight of each potato was 2 pounds, 8 ounces, or 20 pounds for the 8. They are probably the largest tubers ever grown in the country.

Contrary to the rules of the association but with the view of meeting the wishes and accommodating all who came, entries were received on the second day as late as 2 or 3 o'clock p. m. This necessarily disarranged the plans of the directors and interfered with and delayed the work of the judges. In future years the directorate will consult the interests of the majority by a rigid adherence to their bylaws as well in this as in every other respect.

Queen's weather has prevailed during the three days of the show. Had the directors had the power of regulating it they could not have provided more agreeable weather.

Samples of potatoes and corn sent by W. Lumby from Spallumcheen, show what that district is capable of, and proves that it is an inviting field for settlement.

A. B. Knox, Okanagan Mission, sent samples of mission fall wheat, red chaff fall and spring wheat. In this country they are erecting a flour mill and the farmers propose supplying Victoria with flour in the future. Judging by the excellence of the grain, there can be no little question as to the superiority of the flour over the Oregon article which they will turn out.

An exhibit of eleven varieties of apples and six of pears, are on show from the orchard of Messrs. James Robb & Son, Comox. These were gathered on the 15th of Sept., and were intended for the Colonial and Indian Exhibition in London, but, unfortunately, they reached Victoria too late for transmission.

An error crept into our list of the prizes awarded for fowl, the name of R. Green appearing for that of Mrs. G. A. Perrin, for all the single cocks, numbering some thirteen entries, Mrs. Perrin was a remarkably large exhibitor and succeeded in winning thirtty-three out of a possible thirty-six, and was awarded the special cups for best collection.

Mr. O. C. Hastings took first prize for collection of photographs, and Mrs. Maynard second. In our issue of yesterday we stated that these two artists had been adjudged equal, an error attributable to incorrect information. Mr. Hastings is justly entitled to the correction.

Fifteen hundred people visited the grounds on Friday and over $700 was taken at the gate on the two first days.

NICHOLLES & RENOUF

exhibit the Brantford sulky and Brantford sulky gang plow three furrow gangs, Mohawk Chief stubble plow, Scotch Clipper, Prairie Queen, breaking and double mould board adjustible plows; the same spring tooth and seed harrows of all descriptions; the Wisner drill and grass seeder and broadcast seeder; the Brantford front and rear cut mowers, beautifully finished; hay rake and hay teddar; the celebrated Brantford self-rake reaper; the famous Brantford binder, with sheaf carrier and truck attachment; the Minnesota Chief 36-inch Separator, which is kept in motion during the show; the Waterous celebrated 12 horse power Champion portable engine, which was used as the motive power for the electric light, running at 200 revolutions as noiselessly as a watch; single shake and double shake fanning mills; a grain chopping mill, capable of chopping a ton an hour, which was also run during the day; feed furnaces, farmers stoves and churns; a patent elevator and hay carrier, the best in use; root cutters; also the famous Snowball, of St. George, Ont., waggon, for one or two horses, and trucks. The "Snowball" is the favorite in the east, for over half a century the firm has been established. Its policy always has been to use nothing but the very best of material, especially the wood work, which is so thoroughly seasoned that shrinkage is impossible. The general excellence of the workmanship in these wagons has secured for the "Snowball" a reputation as lasting and as desirable as it is possible for a manufacturer to achieve. In this province these waggons are popular because they are durable and good value for the money paid for them; reputation being prefered by Mr. Snowball rather than a flash-in-the-pan business. The exhibit is altogether the most complete ever seen in the province and is valued at $4500. It comprises every article required on a farm, from the time the ground is plowed in the spring until it is marketed in the fall. Every article is of Canadian make. The self-binder and the self-rake reapers are finished and polished like parlor furniture, and the very name of each machine is a guarantee that it is as perfectly constructed and is as durable as any implement of the same kind in the world. Nicholles & Renouf are the largest exhibitors on the ground, and their enterprise in bringing so many articles to the ground, where so many farmers can inspect them, merits and undoubtedly will receive its reward.

SPECIAL NOTICE.

Conlin & Cameron were awarded the first prize for horse shoes. Their exhibit was much admired, the iron shoes being pronounced very superior to anything of the kind the judges had ever seen. This firm makes the shoeing of gentlemen's horses a speciality, and have by the excellence of their work built up a large and lucrative trade. They captured first prizes for their collection and for the best shoe made in the province.

THE ANNUAL MEETING of the association was called to order by President Shakespeare on Friday evening. About forty members were present and evinced a keen interest in the proceedings.

The Secretary Mr. Thomas Russell when called upon to read the minutes of the last annual meeting said he was unable to do so as although the books had been repeatedly asked for the late secretary, Mr. Ferris, had not handed them over. Mr. Kirkland said Mr. Ferris had told him he was coming down to the fair and would bring the books with him.

Mr. Shakespeare said this was the second time the New Westminster people had allowed such a thing to occur and he considered it most unsatisfactory. The Secretary was ordered to make a note of the fact in the minutes. The President's address read at the annual dinner was ordered to be inserted in the minutes.

Mr. A. C. Wells said the next exhibition should be on the mainland. The government grant was given on the understanding that the exhibition should be held alternately between the island and the mainland. The association had not received any encouragement from the people of New Westminster. Two shows had been held there and the last was almost without a patron from that place. At the last annual meeting there was only one member present from New Westminster, and he was a paid officer of the society. He moved, seconded by Mr. Greyall, that the next annual exhibition be held at Chilliwhack.

Mr. J. D. Bryant said as the people of the mainland did not seem to appreciate the advantages of the exhibition he would move in amendment, seconded by Mr. Sanlover, that the next exhibition be held at Victoria.

Mr. C. F. Beaven suggested that in order to stop petty bickerings between the island and mainland, that the main exhibition be held at Victoria every year, while outside sections could have their local shows. In every other province the capital city had a permanent exhibition.

Mr. Ladner, M. P. P., was sorry to find sectionalism cropping up. What would the present show amount to if it were not for the exhibits from the mainland and Washington Territory? He appealed to the members of the association to throw aside sectional feeling and pull together for the success of the whole. It was unfair for Victoria to want the show every year.

Mr. Higgins, M. P. P., said the discussion was out of order as the constitution provided that the place for holding the exhibition should be fixed upon by the committee of management.

The president ruled both motion and amendment out of order.

Mr. Wm. Dalby said the city council of Victoria had given $500, and the citizens $400 towards defraying the expenses of the exhibition, and asked if Chilliwhack would guarantee a similar amount.

Mr. T. E. Kitchen said Chilliwhack could, and would subscribe $900.

Messrs. A. C. Wells, Geo. Chadsey, John Reese and Wm. Dalby were nominated for president. Reese and Dalby withdrew, and a ballot being taken Mr. Wells received 30 votes, Mr. Chadsey 9 and Mr. Reese 10. Mr. Wells was declared elected.

Mr. J. D. Bryant was elected 1st vice president and Mr. Ladner, M. P. P., 2nd vice-president, by acclamation. Messrs. Sandover, J. C. Henderson, Jas. Tolmie, Geo. Ashwell, E. G. Prior, John Campbell, Adam Innes, John Kirkland, R. Stevenson and E. Greyell, were elected, by acclamation, a board of directors.

Geo. W. Chadsey was elected secretary, and J. Reese treasurer, by acclamation.

Mr. Wells, the newly elected president, in assuming the duties of his office, asked for the hearty co-operation of each individual member of the association to make the next exhibition a success.

Mr. C. E. Renouf moved that that portion of article 3, section 1, of the constitution which provides that members of the association may compete for any prize of the association without payment of entrance fees, be struck out. Lost. On motion of Mr. Humber a vote of thanks was passed and tendered to the retiring officers. The meeting then adjourned.

HORSE RACE.

On Friday evening there was a mile dash on the course at Beacon hill, between Wm. Wilson's mare "Nelly," W. C. Bryant's "Irish Maid" and an unknown for a prize of $85. During the first half mile "Nelly" took the lead, but gradually lost it, "Irish Maid" going ahead and comiag in an easy winner.

BABY SHOW.

The "event" of to-day was the baby show. There were about fifty entries, each mother, as a matter of course, believing her baby to be a handsomer one than that of her neighbors or any one elses, no matter where they hailed from. The juvenile gents and ladies were attired in their best, and they did look pleasingly well. They were evidently conscious of the ordeal through which they were passing and appeared to enjoy the remarks passed upon them by the hundreds of spectators who each advancing their own opinions as to the best looking, best dressed, best behaved or the plumpest child, age considered.

The judges were His Worship the Mayor, Messrs Higgins and Ross, of San Francisco. They criticised each baby minutely and made the following awards: Prettiest baby, Lizzie Williams; 2nd, Lottie McDonald; 3rd, Violet Clark; best dressed baby, Willie Bucket; curly-headed child Wilfred Green; finest child, Gertrude Irving, a young miss less than two months old. Six prizes were given in all. Many a mother was disappointed, but as there were only half a dozen prizes to be given all could not get a prize. Considerable money changed hands on the result. On this occasion it was not found necessary to borrow, or import babies from the Sound. The home product was a handsome one fully sustaining the reputation of the Victoria babies.

A TELEGRAPH DISPUTE.

Right of the Canadian Pacific Railway Company to Use Certain Lines Questioned.

A director of the Montreal Telegraph Company has stated that his board were determined to protect themselves and find out whether the Canadian Pacific railway had a right to use the lines of the South Eastern, Credit Valley and Ottawa and Prescott roads which have been leased exclusively to the Montreal Telegraph some years ago. It is stated that the directors have secured the services of Mr. Girouard, M. P., Q. C., who after consulting the charter discovered that the C. P. R. had no right to do business south of the St. Lawrence and on Monday will take an injunction restraining them from operating all lines in that section. A special meeting of the directors of the Montreal Telegraph company is called for Wednesday to decide whether it is necessary to call a meeting of shareholders to discuss the matter. It is rumored that the deal will end in an absorption by the C. P. R. of the lines of the Dominion Telegraph company in Ontario, which would give the C. P. R. an exclusive monopoly of telegraphs in Ontario, the Northwest Territories and British Columbia thus leaving the Montreal company without any important connections outside of Quebec. This with the report that all the large shareholders have quietly sold out weakened the stock of the Montreal company.

HARBOR MASTER.

The appointment of James D. Draper, of New Westminster, to be Harbor Master for that port, vice M. G. Pettendreigh, is published in the Canada Gazette.

A deputation of prominent Conservatives opposed to prohibition recently visited Toronto. Their object is said to be to make arrangements for the buying out of the Mail or changing its attitude on the temperance question.

The Bessemer steel-rail factories keep up their combination formed a year ago. They have several times enlarged their limit, and the price has risen from $26.50 to $27, a year ago, to $34 to $35 per ton at the works.

It costs only $1 to $1.50 to incorporate a railroad in Kansas. The object of many incorporations is to possess the land in advance of rivals. Atchison has "pre-empted" hundreds, not to say thousands, of miles in this way, and is probably not alone in the business.

The contract for a $1,000,000 bridge over the Missouri River at Kansas City for the new St. Paul line has been let.

Thomas Cruikshanks, a Scotchman living in Alford, Ill., is reported to have fallen heir to an estate of half a million left by an aunt who recently died in Scotland. Cruikshanks is a veteran of several wars, having served in the British and American armies.

THE FASHIONS.

What is to be Worn this Winter, and how to Dress.

The bodices of thin woolen material are lined with silk.

Grenadines have designs embroidered by hand in floss silk.

Chemisettes of piece-lace have full frisses of narrow lace to correspond.

Silk gloves have chenille figures in bright colors embroidered on the arm.

Cashmere, camel's hair, serge and surah are used for traveling costumes.

Short mantles of Tartan plaid, picturesquely draped, are favorites.

White mousseline de sole bridal dresses are made up over white glace silk.

Surplice bodices have the fullness beginning at the shoulder seam, and crossing diagonally from right to left.

Collars with plastrons, epaulets and cuffs to correspond are made of cut beads in jet, amber, garnet, and opal.

Panels, collars and cuffs of velvet are used for camel's hair costumes, the gathered plastron being of twilled silk.

Grenadines with plush stripes have the plush stripes so cut that it resembles overlapping shells. Others with wide meshes have plush dots.

The favorite shades for gloves for evening wear are putty and tan color. For wear with tailor made costumes there are gloves of corresponding tint.

Travelling dresses for young persons are made with postilion bodice, kilt-plaited skirt, short, apron drapery in front, and long, straight drapery at the back.

There will exist a perfect furore for the bourettes and etamines styled frisé, and for rough effects in many different grades of goods, but the enthusiasm is not likely to continue.

Fancy beaded hairpins are very fashionable worn in the hair, and tortoise shell pins have a crescent, star, horseshoe, or plain initial letter in small pearls, mounted in silver at the top.

A mantle of biscuit-colored frise brocade on a red ground is short in the back and is rather long in front. It is trimmed with fine woolen lace corresponding to the tints of the brocade.

Short mantles reaching to the waist-line have sling sleeves and the fronts have scarf drapery crossing the breast and fastened at the left side of the waist, long ends depending below the knees.

A rich dress of poppy-colored satin is veiled with white guipure lace. The gracefully draped polonaise of embroidered white China crape has the plastron and belt of the satin of which the skirt is made.

An evening dress of almond brown faille Francaise is made en princesse. The flowing draperies are raised high on one side, disclosing a tulle skirt of the same tint embroidered with gossamer-like gold thread.

Mull, silk canvas, cream and snow white muslin, grenadine, and etamine fabrick are all used for neck and corsage dressing, and the guimpes and plastrons shirred or laid in folds, or in full Fedora style, are worn by young and old, pretty and plain.

Points are high in favor. Capes with pointed pieces let into the back and sleeves, dresses with overskirts cut in points and trimmed with lace.

OUR BIG TREES.

British Columbia's Contribution to the Dominion Exhibition at Sherbrooke.

The eastern papers are united in the opinion that by far the most interesting exhibit at the Dominion show is that from the Northwest and British Columbia, to be found under a large canvas, the property of the Canadian Pacific Railway Company, and selected by Mr. J. H. McTavish, Land Commissioner. The collection embraces specimens from all parts of the line of the Canadian Pacific, from Port Artaur to Port Moody. There are samples of grain grown in the vicinity of Fort William on the east and the valley of the Columbia river on the west, thus furnishing contributions from Ontario, Manitoba, Assiniboia, Alberta and the Pacific province. On entering the tent the attention of visitors is first drawn to the samples of the enormous timber which grows on the Pacific coast. The largest is a specimen of the Douglas fir. This tree is also known commercially under the appellation of "Oregon pine." It grows to a height of some 270 feet, and the trunk is not only very valuable for ordinary lumber, but has a special usefulness for ship's masts and spars, of which cargoes are made up for all parts of the world. Among the ports constantly supplied direct from British Columbia are Marseilles, Sydney, Hong Kong, Calcutta, Singapore, besides the naval dock yards of Great Britain. The specimen at this exhibition is a section of about one foot in thickness and has a diameter of eight feet. The age of the tree is estimated by a computation of the rings which indicate the annual growth, and show it to have been 561 years old when it fell a victim to the axe of the woodman. In the immediate vicinity of where this tall tree grew here stumps, one of which measured seventeen feet six inches in diameter. Those who feel an interest in yachting may like to know that it is timber of this class obtained from Oregon, British Columbia and Washington Territory that the masts and spars of celebrated racing yachts such as the Puritan and Galatea are supplied. Owing to these trees growing so close together and to such an enormous height, frequently 150 feet without a limb, the grain is exceedingly free from knots or faults of any kind. The quantity in existence in British Columbia is very great, but owing to the lack of snow in the valleys where the largest specimens grow, special means have to be employed to transfer these giants of the forest to points where they can become merchantable products. The other specimen mentioned is of British Columbia spruce, also a very valuable timber. It measures seven feet in diameter.

Customs imports at Winnipeg for September show an increase in value of ten thousand dollars compared with September of last year.

Mr. Hugh J. Macdonald and wife have reached Winnipeg from their trip to British Columbia.

It is believed the Manitoba election will not be held before the middle of December.

The London Times says England has good reason to be satisfied with the statements made by Herr Tisza, indicating the point beyond which the Austro-German alliance cannot be strained without breaking.

Mr. Hugh Sutherland says that the starting point for the Hudson's Bay railway will be located in a few days near Winnipeg, and construction will then be immediately begun. Contractor Mann & Holt, contractors for the first forty miles, gave a large number of sub-contracts of five or six miles each to railway men.

OUR GREAT SHOW.

The Provincial Exhibition closes to-night. It must be gratifying to the president, his fellow officers and directors, to know that their efforts and exertions this year have been crowned with success, for the number of entries in all the classes are larger than ever before, while the excellence of the stock, the manufactures, domestic articles, the cereals, roots and vegetables, is a theme of praise in everyone's mouth. THE TIMES, as an ardent advocate of these recurring exhibitions, be they those of a district or the more comprehensive outcome of the resources of the province, must congratulate the people of British Columbia on the spirit and energy they have displayed in connection with this exhibition. The efforts of the officers were futile did not the people respond so cordially to their appeals to bring out the best they had, and they did so, thereby making the show a success. As a matter of course the attendance this year is greater than ever, and the receipts correspondingly larger. This is a very prominent consideration with those in charge of the management of the association's finances, for unless the gate money is encouraging the prize list must be one of little moment. Here, as in the east, the rule applies that in sparsely settled sections, the attendance and receipts must necessarily be in sympathy with each other. Facilities for transportation and accommodation may be all that is desired, but a show-going community are not within a convenient radius. We do not now intend discussing the itinerant system, but are endeavoring to illustrate the advantage certain centres possess over others for the holding of similar exhibitions to our own. The Toronto Industrial show this year, in gate receipts alone, received a sum of over $40,000. The Dominion exhibition at Sherbrooke, Que., although largely subsidized by the Dominion government, was a comparative failure. The same exhibition when held at Montreal is a success. The Ontario Provincial, held in the City of Guelph—the centre of the best agricultural and stock-raising district on the continent—was a financial failure, yet in point of exhibits a great success. The Central at Hamilton, is a success; so also is the Western at London, and many of the minor ones held in various parts of the province. In Victoria, with her population of 12,000, there is always a per centage to be drawn upon as paying visitors which cannot be found elsewhere in the province, which accounts in a great measure for the success which has attended the exhibition of 1886.

These exhibitions, in our judgment, are great educating forces, and much benefit and instruction are to be derived from the fine specimens of live stock, the excellent productions of the dairy, the garden and the field, the machinery, implements and all lines of domestic manufactures. Everything considered we believe that in point of excellence the exhibits will compare very favorably with those of any other country, and unmistakeably demonstrates the fact that British Columbians can hold their own against all comers.

AT LAST THEY AGREE.

For close upon forty years SIR JOHN MACDONALD and the Globe have been a daggers ends, excepting of course the brief interrigum that the Hon. JNO. BROWN occupied a seat in SIR JOHN'S coalition cabinet—somewhat over a year. The strange mixing up that is now taking place in the east finds many who have been estranged for years pulling in the same political boat. In a recent issue the Toronto Mail in an article headed "They Embrace at Last," says: SIR JOHN MACDONALD approves of the maintenance of the tithe system in Quebec. The Globe also treats it as a sacred thing. Thus, after forty years of estrangement, the lion and the lamb—which is which we do not pretend to say—lie down together and find peace in the capacious hosom of the Church. It is a truly remarkable tribute to her influence in Canadian politics.

SIR JOHN contends that the tithe "system is a system of which the "Protestants in Quebec cannot complain, for they have nothing to do "with it; and, if the French themselves do not complain, why should "we in another province, with different institutions, try to force our "opinions upon them and get up an "agitation upon a point of that kind? "I disaprove of it altogether."

The Globe says no opponent of the tithe law "has been able to show "that its existence inflicts any material grievance whatsoever upon the "Protestants of Quebec, they not "being submitted to its provisions. "From the inability of the antagonists of the system to show any "grievance arising from it, anybody "may fairly argue that it inflicts "none. Our position has been and "is simply, that the matter is one "with which Ontario electors have "practically no concern."

Notwithstanding this extraordinary agreement to the contrary, the Mail believes it can be satisfactorily shown that the tithe system works injuriously not only to Quebec but to the whole Dominion, and therefore ought to be abolished.

A DISPATCH from New Orleans announces that owing to the heavy frosts last winter the orange crop is almost a failure this year. The trees are so badly injured that it will take several years of propitious weather before the crop will be a full one again.

THE CONTEST IN QUEBEC.

The nominations for candidates for the legislature of Quebec were held throughout that province last Thursday; the polling will take place next Thursday. Unusual interest is centered in the present contest, and a political battle is being fought such as has had no equal for many years, if ever. It is certain that the two contending parties will be more equally divided than what they have hitherto been. We have no means of knowing what the actual result will be. The Quebec Government have strongly repudiated any sympathy with or responsibility for the course taken by the Federal Administration, and this repudiation will possibly go a long way to prevent Dominion issues being dragged into the Provincial contest. It may be that the Government of Mr. Ross in the Province of Quebec will be sustained. If so it is likely to come out of the contest with a very much smaller following than that which it has heretofore had; but our friends must not for a moment confound the strength of the local party with that of the Federal Ministry in that Province. The Local Government, so far as it is weakened, will suffer mainly from the supposed sympathy with the Federal Ministry. No doubt, however, many electors will refuse to make it vicariously responsible for the faults of Sir JOHN MACDONALD and his colleagues. Messrs. CHAPLEAU, LANGEVIN and CARON are doomed beyond question, but it does not follow that Mr. Ross and his colleagues will necessarily suffer the same fate on their account. The clergy have been admonished to maintain strict neutrality between the contending factions. This is very ominous for the government, many regarding it as an omen that the church authorities consider defeat certain.

LIQUOR PERMITS.

The MCKENZIE government passed the legislation placing the Northwest Territories under constitutional prohibition. The act prohibits the manufacture, importation and sale of intoxicating liquors within the territory. The reason for the passage of the act was obvious. There is a very large Indian population, and even to-day, after ten years of immigration, a very small white population. No greater danger could beset the latter than would result from the unrestricted sale of liquors among Indians. The act permits the importation and sale of limited quantities of liquors for mechanical and medicinal purposes. While honestly administered, as it was under the late Governor Laird no difficulty was experienced. Governor DEWDNEY, who succeeded him, being appointed by Sir John Macdonald is a very different kind of a medicine man from Mr. LAIRD. He holds high and bibulous carnival in his court at Regina, and what is more, as the Mail admits, "the law is suspended in the case of those members of the community who, having friends at court, are enabled under the permit system to bring in two gallons of whisky as often as they choose to contribute fifty cents per gallon to the territorial treasury." Liquor is also permitted to be sold on the Canadian Pacific dining cars. In these two ways the thirsty, if they are of the one political stripe, set the prohibitory law at defiance. It is satisfactory to find that this disgraceful condition of things, which has frequently been exposed in the Liberal press and in Parliament is now challenged by some of the Tory newspapers. Things must be pretty bad when they grow ashamed, and the indications are that they are now either ashamed, or think it polite to cry out against the permit system.

A COMING QUESTION.

The question of Home Rule for Scotland as well as for Ireland is rapidly becoming a rallying cry for the former country. The great land question is pressing for solution in the former as well as in the latter, the only difference being that the tenants in the one have not yet been reduced to such horrible straits as in the other. But no intelligent and high-spirited people will forever submit to see the soil of their native country converted in vast areas into game preserves and sheep walks for a few wealthy landlords while the toiling multitude are crowded into or over the sea. They ought not to submit to it. The best method for bringing about a change is a nice and difficult question, but a change is bound to come. The rights of possession must be respected within certain limits, but those rights are not all prevailing. They rest upon one broad base of eternal justice. They were, originally, bestowed not by God and nature, but by selfish and short-sighted human rulers. The rights of the people, the many, the toiling sons of the soil, are broader, deeper, more righteous, and must prevail. And in both Ireland and Scotland, yes, and in England too, Home Rule is pretty clearly destined to be the first and decisive step towards a proper distribution and utilization of the land. Said an intelligent leader of the Crofter movement the other day: "When Scotchmen are allowed to manage their own affairs, deer parks will go, and the workers will get the land." Not a doubt of it. And the day is drawing near.

—Parties wishing to invest in Port Moody property will have an opportunity of so doing by calling on Captain W. R. Clarke, at his salesroom, Yates street, where prices, conditions and all other information can be obtained. The property offered is on the Clarke estate, and is considered to be the most valuable in the port.

THE OLIVE IN CALIFORNIA.

A Growing Demand for the Oil—A New Delight for the Epicure.

This hardy little tree, the olive, is always assigned the ugliest and stoniest and meanest bit of land to be found on the farm. And the olive takes kindly to any place you choose to put him. He takes root from the slip and grows right along, and in due time drops his little, black and oily apples down in the tall grass in such abundance that you can sometimes see the oil spreading over the rocks and running down and enriching the soil in the hot sun.

What a country this will be when the olive becomes established here as in Italy! At present it is not abundant, for the olive is a slower grower as compared with other things here, and so the planters have been slow to cultivate it. Yet I believe that now almost every ranch has more or less olive trees growing; for there is a great demand not only for the oil but also for the olive itself.

It begins to look as if olive oil may take the place of butter out here after awhile. Fancy a group of little children on a farmer's porch, with bread in hand, dipping it into a dish of olive oil. The scene is so frequent here that I asked a woman not long ago why she did not give her children butter on their bread instead.

She answered me that her children would not eat butter if they could get olive oil to sop their bread in. And I think they are about right. I have found myself more than once preferring olive oil to butter here. And the butter is of the best. But any one who has a taste for pickled olives, either natural or acquired, will find himself becoming very partial to the oil of olives.

Yet never before did I find this taste for olive oil so supreme. Even in Italy and Spain and Palestine, places where there is no butter fit to eat, I did not care for olive oil. But this here is so superior to that of all other lands that, as I said before, I suspect it may drive out the use of butter to some extent. The people here eat their pickled olives with great relish. The plate of little purple olives is ever present on the table, and is soon emptied. This purple or black olive is a new invasion of the old custom. And just why anybody ever pickled the olive green I do not know. Certainly no one who ever ate a purple or ripe olive would ever eat a green one. Maybe the olive was put up green in Spain and Italy for better transportation. Be that as it may, I desire to call attention to the little purple California olive. This oily, luscious and soft little pickle is a new delight for the epicure. An no one who ever tastes a ripe olive properly prepared will ever touch one of the tough, old-fashioned green ones from over the sea. This olive here is prepared for the table in the simplest way possible. They are gathered, thrown into a tub of water, where the few bad ones float off, and then they are simply packed in brine. That is all.—Joaquin Miller in Chicago Times.

A Poet's Notion Concerning Gold.

Years ago I wrote and published in a London magazine an article in which I undertook to prove that gold grows—grows the same as grain or potatoes, or anything else. I reckon I did my work crudely, not knowing anything about chemistry or even the ordinary terms of expression about such matters, and so my earnest and entirely correct sketch was torn all to pieces and laughed to scorn.

Well, I have at last found positive proof of my general statement right here in these mountains by the Pacific sea. Briefly and simply, I have found a piece of petrified wood with a little vein or thread of gold in it. How did that gold get into this piece of wood? Was it placed there by the finger of God on the morning of creation, as men have claimed was the case with the gold found in the veins of the mountains? Nonsense!

Gold grows! Certain conditions of the air, or certain combinations of earth and air and water, and whatever chemicals may be required, and then a rock, a piece of quartz or petrified tree for the gold to grow in, and there is your gold crop! Of course, gold grows slowly. Centuries upon centuries, it may be, are required to make the least sign of growth. But it grows just as I asserted years ago; and here at last I hold in my hand such testimony as no man in this world will be rash enough to question: a portion of a petrified tree with a thread of gold in it.—Joaquin Miller in the Chicago Times.

A Princess of Wales' Drawing Room.

However, like old Mother Hubbard, we "got there" at last, and then all was smooth sailing. The magnificent guards sat on horseback in the splendid quadrangle, the band discoursed excellent music, within the portal stood the immemorial beef eaters, the gentlemen of the Queen's Guards helped us to alight, pages in the royal livery took our cloaks, and passing on through superb halls and up an immense staircase, with our trains over our arms, we finally reached the saloon, where we were to wait the pleasure of the lord chamberlain; pictures of great interest on the walls, and a plenty of comfortable chairs to sit down in. Soon the room began to fill with the gorgeous women in court toilets; every one with white feathers and veil, and low necks, bare arms and fine gowns; or, as they say here, "smart" gowns. It was a really splendid scene.

We were all furnished with two cards, one of which we handed to the queen's page at the door. The other we keep until we reached the throne room. Fortunately several ladies preceded me to let me see that one's train should be carefully spread out like a peacock's tail, for one, and that there was nothing formidable in the courtesy. I courtesied four times as I passed the beautiful Princess of Wales, Princess Christian, Princess Mary of Cambridge, and the ever popular Prince of Wales, and lived through it. It is nothing but the early "bob" of our childish days made with respectful intent.—London Cor. Boston Traveler.

Beer Drinking in Bavaria's Capital.

What would Munich be without beer? As a ship stranded. Mr. Horstmann shows how the capital of Bavaria floats on an ocean of foaming beer. People do not in common conversation speculate over the weather but ask at once, "How is the beer to-day?" The Bavarian does not drink beer because he is thirsty, "but because he enjoys it, and because he enjoys it he drinks much." Every man in Munich guzzles his four quarts per diem. There are thousands who swallow their eight quarts, and many who swill their ten to twelve quarts. A student will manage at one sitting from ten to twelve quarts, which would fill about sixty of our glasses. A congress of stupid scientific fellows met at a Munich festival and each one drank three and six-tenths quarts during a short sitting. —The Argonaut.

George Eliot as an Old Woman.

Nancy also saw George Eliot, and this she regrets very much. She tries not to think of the woman when she reads her books, for she was the typical old woman of the old comedies. She needed a shawl for her shoulders, stools had to be brought for her feet, doors and windows had to be managed to suit her, and, notwithstanding it is almost heresy to find any fault with her, still Nancy's summing up of her as "stuffy" seems rather commonplace, not to me more decided words. —Cor. New York Star.

Wages of an Organist.

The Boston Post says that a salary of $350 a year is deemed an ample return in one of the richest churches in Boston for the services of an organist of the very first grade. It also says that recently one of the foremost organists in America was offered $600 a year to play the organ in a rich New York church, and he replied that, while he could earn as much as that driving a street car, he would not degrade his calling by accepting the offer.—Exchange.

MONSTER HARVESTERS.

ORIGIN OF THE GREAT LABOR-SAVING MACHINES OF THE WEST.

How Grain is Harvested on the Pacific Coast—Iron Titans Which Wade Through Grain Fields, Cutting, Threshing and Bagging all at Once.

The constantly changing manner of harvesting grain in the last quarter of a century is worth recording. While the east has been making great strides in improvements the far west has not been behind in modes adapted to its wants. In the last three or four years a class of monster harvesting machines has appeared. They cut, thrash and sack the grain as they move over the field, dropping the filled sacks upon the ground, the grain being cleaned ready for market. The real origin of these great labor-saving machines has been known to very few. Even the present manufacturers are most of them in the dark on the subject.

In a recent extended tour over Oregon, Washington territory and Idaho I have devoted considerable time and expense to gathering facts, and can now locate the first invention in Oregon. As long ago as 1853 one Luper, residing near Lebanon, Ore., built and used a machine which pushed ahead of the horses and ran the cut grain off in a swath on the ground at the left of the machine, leaving it to be gathered and carried to the stack or thrasher. From this sprang the header and elevator now so well known on the Pacific coast. It is substantially the same machine, but with a spout that carries the grain to large header beds on wagons by which it is transported to the stack.

COMBINED HEADER AND THRASHER.

While the Luper machine was in operation Medders Vanderpool, also residing near Lebanon, conceived the idea of attaching some sort of a thrasher to it. He built a combined machine in 1855, using it through one harvest. It was run almost entirely by belt, and the thrashing was done by friction, the thrashed grain falling into a box and being winnowed afterward. The machine did fair work, but was not durable. It gave out after cutting 700 or 800 acres of grain. In 1860 Mr. Vanderpool made improvements and changed the manner of handling the grain. After a season's run, however, he was not pleased with his improvements. In 1865 and 1864 he went back to very nearly his first invention. Having obtained patents he constructed another machine. At the age of 61 years he takes great pleasure in exhibiting the model at his farmhouse near Lebanon. The machine required ten good horses or mules and three men to operate it. When properly handled it would cut from twelve to eighteen acres of grain per day. Nothing was ever done with it in a business way. It ran three or four years, cutting a large acreage, when it was thrown aside. But it attracted attention, and others began to experiment in search of a good combined harvester and thrasher.

The first to go to work in earnest and expend money were W. G. and L. T. Davis, of McMinnville, Ore. They began work in 1866 and obtained patents in 1867. These patents are in part the basis of the present numerous successful machines of this class. The Davis brothers first made two machines. These were used one five years and the other six years. They cut many thousands of acres of grain in the great Willamette valley. At the farm residence of L. T. Davis I saw an old photograph of the machine. A few facts relating to the enterprise may interest your readers.

CUTTING A BROAD SWATH.

Ten animals and three men were used to run these machines. The average cut was eighteen acres of grain per day. The contrivance was a pull-and-push machine. Three animals were on the left and three on the right of the separator, and four in the lead. The operator stood on the left of the separator in the rear, the sacker platform being on the right. The thrasher was an ordinary belt machine, and the patents covered the peculiar and novel connections between it and the cutting apparatus.

The trials, troubles and losses of the Davis boys would make a good-sized volume. The worst of it is that they could not shape matters to carry on the business and retrieve their losses. About this time William H. Parish had been operating with a similar machine with limited success, as had also J. H. Robbins & Bro., all residing near the scene of the first invention. The Davis boys, being unable to go on, sold their patents to Mr. Parish and one J. C. Aikin, who again sold to California parties at Stockton. Since then several different kinds of the machines have been built there, as well as one at Benicia.

Nearly all the California machines of mark require from eighteen to twenty-eight animals and three or four men. They cut from twenty to forty acres of grain per day. The swath cut is from twelve to twenty-eight feet in width. The cost to put the grain in the sack with these machines is from 50 to 70 cents per acre, all told. They leave the straw and chaff scattered over the ground, unless in cases where "bunches" are used for carrying the straw and leaving it in piles so that the farmer can gather it.

These machines are now running in the great San Joaquin valley. I saw twenty in a two days' trip. The grain was down and tangled some, but they got through it easily. The yield is about nine sacks of two and a quarter bushels per acre for a very late acreage in the middle district of the valley. The quality is fair and the price at railroad stations is 1 cent a pound.

These machines are not at all adapted to moist countries. They much resemble a traveling caravan as they rumble through the vast fields of ripe waving grain. The eastern tourist will not find in all the ramble a grander sight than the California traveling caravan harvesting outfit.—Oakland (Cal.) Cor. New York Sun.

Talking Over Their Indebtedness.

About the year 1837 I happened to be in Vicksburg. I heard an old gentleman in one of the hotels giving one of his friends an account of a trip he had just made to New Orleans. "I went there," said he, "to make some arrangement with my commission merchant about a bill of exchange he had accepted for me last year, and which had fallen due. He wanted me to pay him a part of the money. I was not able to do it. He then said I must get some solvent man to indorse a new bill and take up the old one. It was entirely out of my power to do that, and the first thing I knew he had me locked up in the calaboose. That is an institution especially adapted to the incarceration of foreign creditors.

"When I got in I saw some of the finest looking men and the best dressed men I had met in all New Orleans. They were smoking their cigars, drinking their champagne, and talking over their indebtedness. One of them had been calaboosed for $30,000, another for $100,000, and some as high as $250,000. I sat there like a poor man at a frolic, having nothing to say to anybody. At length an impudent little rascal slapped me on the shoulder and said: 'Well, my old rooster, how much were you jugged for?' I replied: '21,500.' Turning round to his comrades, he exclaimed: 'Why, curse his pitiful soul, gentlemen, let us raise up the money and turn him out.'"—Courier-Journal Interview.

Failure of the Phonograph.

Phonographs have never become more than a toy, although great things were predicted of it. Edison did nothing more with it and turned his attention to the more profitable work of perfecting the system of incandescent lighting that has since been such a success. The trouble with the phonograph was that the tin foil was not soft enough to take the impression of the sound-waves deep enough to make the machinery talk loudly when its time came to talk. In fact the phonograph was a very good listener, but a poor repeater of conversations. What a pity it is that humanity is not built more on the basis of the phonograph.—Detroit Free Press.

PAID A DOCTOR TEN DOLLARS FOR NOTHING.

James E. Lawlor, sworn, before Judge Galt, Toronto, 1882; Jas. Bethune, Q. C., for plaintiffs: "I live on King street, Toronto; I keep a cigar store. I got a Starr Kidney Pad the first of the year. I had a pain just across the small of my back. I had the pain for about three weeks—I don't know what brought it on. I was speaking to Mr. Robert L. Kidd one day, and he advised me to get one of the pads as it cured him he said; I got it and I wore it for about four weeks when I was cured; I went home to Nova Scotia on a visit, and I was better, before I started and I have not had the pad on since. I am well and sound now. Q.—To what do you attribute your cure? A.—Well, the pad; I took nothing else; I had no other remedy. I believe the pad did it, a doctor charged me $10 for sounding my kidneys and some medicine which did me no good. This I paid some time before trying the pad. I used no other medicine after but the pad. Cross-examination—Q.—You felt the pain until you got to Nova Scotia? A.—Oh! no; I had no notion of going home until the night before I left; I put the pad on between Christmas and New Year's; I decided to go home because I was well, otherwise I would not have gone. Q.—You had just been over exerting yourself, and your back wanted a rest? A.—I don't know; I had not exerted any in hard work in my business, and I am temperate in all things. DEATH OF A PROMINENT TURFMAN.

Mr. John Forbes, of Woodstock, Ont., known in sporting circles as the Canadian Turf King, died week before last in the Eastern States. Deceased who had been ailing for time, was a deservedly popular gentleman and held in high esteem by the many Canadians and Americans who knew him. He was a native of the vicinity of Woodstock and made that town famous for the excellence of its horses. Mr. Forbes had not a solitary enemy anywhere, and his death is universally regretted. He leaves behind him a sorrowing widow and a grown up family to lament his death. She was at his bed side to attend to his last wants. At the time of his death, amongst other horses, famed on the turf, Mr. Forbes owned Bill Bruce, Vicksburg, Judge Darrell, Caledoni Bailey, Amazon, Bonnie Bird, Zamora, Shamrock, Saltpeter, Brait, Harry Cooper, George L, Oliver B, Fanny Wiser, Maumee, Galvantress and Bonnie Vic, and the important stallion Strachino. His funeral was one of the largest ever seen in Woodstock, where his parents and relatives are likewise interred.

WELCOME TO KEEP HIM.

The Regina Leader fawns upon Mr. Dewdney since his return to that town. It says in announcing the arrival of His Honor and Mrs. Dewdney, "we hope to stay with us, though the rumors become more and more frequent that he goes to British Columbia. We met several B. C. gentlemen on the train who assured us the appointment would be a popular one in B. C. There can be no doubt Mr. Dewdney's re-appointment in the Territories would be popular." The "several gentlemen on the train" we opine were confined to His Honor and the enthusiastic editor of The Leader. If his re-appointment in the Territories would be popular by all means let him there remain. British Columbians will not regret his not coming here as our Lieut.-Governor.

SERVICES TO-MORROW.

Rev. Dr. Stephenson, London, England, will preach to-morrow morning and evening in the Pandora street Methodist church. To-morrow evening he will lecture in the same place on "The Sins and Sorrows of Child Life in London." A collection to be taken up in aid of the Rev. gentleman's Childrens Home, which he has established in Hamilton, Ont., being a branch of the London, England, institution. All are cordially invited.

In St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church the Sacrement of the Lord's Supper will be dispensed in the forenoon; the Rev. Robert Stephen officiating.

HO! FOR WINNIPEG.

In the excitment attendant upon the exhibition the civic excursion to Winnipeg next Thursday should not be overlooked. A considerable number have signified their intention of taking the trip, and advantage of the favorable rate offered. It will not only be an enjoyable one, but likewise a profitable affair to those of our business men desirous of seeing the great Northwest and meeting its business men, with whom it is expected a considerable trade is to spring up.

CORSETS, CORSETS, CORSETS.

We make corsets a specialty. Having rarely less than 500 pairs in stock we can at all times offer the largest variety to be found in the city. Amongst those lately received are the "COUTON," a remarkably strong, well made, model shaped Corset, at a very low price, guaranteed for a twelvemonth; and the "IRRUBANCE," the greatest novelty in Corsets yet introduced. LIFE INSURANCE.

A New Competitor for Life Insurance in British Columbia.

The old established and successful Citizens Insurance Company of Canada, have decided to open a branch in this city for the transaction of life as well as fire insurance business. Messrs. Hart, Imrie & Dansereau have been appointed General Agents for the Province and have opened offices in the new Victoria Theatre block. A particular feature of the Citizens business is that by special act of the Dominion Parliament (39 Vic., Chap. 55, 1876), the funds of the Life Branch are invested separately, and are not liable for any other losses of the Company; though all the assets of the Company, as well as capital, are liable to the last cent for claims of the Life Branch, which, as may be seen, are a first charge on the general funds of the Company. The great security thus offered to insurers, cannot fail to be recognised by the discerning public, as it makes insolvency, next to an impossibility. Every business man of to-day knows, or ought to know, the advantage of life insurance. He, who has others dependent upon him, and neglects to provide for them in case of his death, when such advantages as are now offered by life insurance are within his reach, is guilty of a grievous sin. By means of life insurance, daughters may be dowered; sons established in business; widows continued in comfort and assured the social respect which competency commands; debts may be provided for during life and paid at death. Insurance renders all this easy, and offers it at a cheap rate. It never exacts but one condition, and that not from all. This condition is: a disposition towards economy. Economy is the beginning of all wisdom, of all wealth, of all morality—just as its opposite hastens the finale of all these. The exercising of but a little economy, the discounting of useless habits, the lopping off of some foolish luxury, would suffice to place you securely under the protection of insurance, and redeem from the possible enslavements of poverty, the family whose future inspires you with your chief anxieties and alarms. "Procrastination is the thief of time;" do not wait until sickness or death overtakes you, and loved ones are left to battle with the world alone, but insure now. Messrs. HART, IMRIE & DANSEREAU, Agents, New Theatre Block, Victoria.

THE SEAL PIRATES.

The Men Released and Their Fines Remitted—Capt. Ogilvie of the Onward Still Missing.

The United States government are evidently receding from the position taken by them in reference to the seal fisheries in Behring Sea. On the steamer Idaho which arrived last night, five of the captured sealers, who until recently were "languishing in a dungeon cell" at Sitka, returned to this city. Their names are, Jas. Blake, mate of the Carolina; Capt. Dan Munroe, of the Onward; John Macatidge, mate of the Onward; Capt. Gerjthompson of the Thornton and H Norman, mate of the Thornton. All of these were with the exception of Blake, were sentenced to thirty days imprisonment each and to pay fines ranging from $200 to $500 each. Blake was sentenced to ten days imprisonment without a fine. Blake had put in his ten days, and the others had put in all but six or seven days of the thirty days to which they had been sentenced, when they were released and their fines remitted. No explanation was offered as to the reason of their release; they were simply told to go, and they stood not upon the order of their going, but went at once. Nothing has so far been heard of the whereabouts of Captain Ogilvie of the Carolena, who disappeared the day before the trial at Sitka, and it is feared that his mind becoming unsettled through brooding over the seizure of his vessel, he has wandered off into the woods and died of exposure. The last seen of him was on the day before the trial, when he was observed going towards the woods. He has not been seen or heard of since. The only one of the so-called sent pirates now remaining in jail is the captain of the American schooner San Diego. Being an American and not having any foreign government to intercede in his behalf he will probably remain "behind the bars" until his full time has expired.

DR. STEPHENSON.

Rev. Dr. Stevenson, the eminent Methodist clergyman, of London, England, who arrived from the east last evening, visited the exhibition this forenoon, and was considerably surprised at the extent and variety of the show. In conversation with our reporter, Dr. Stevenson said he had obtained larger impressions of the Dominion—of the new Canada which had been opened up—from the journey across the continent. He predicts a constantly increasing stream of English tourists through the mountains of British Columbia, which will become the play ground of Englishmen in a year or two hence. In order that tourists may be enabled to view the sublime scenery of the rockies to the best advantage, he suggests that the wagon roads along and parallel to the track be kept open by the government. Englishmen are accustomed to "doing" Switzerland in a leisurely way, traveling only during day time. To hurry them through British Columbia at express speed, one half of the journey being made at night, would be to defeat the object they have in view. Dr. Stevenson will preach in Pandora street church to-morrow forenoon and evening, and on Monday night will lecture at the same place on his labors among the children of London during the past twenty years. He will return to the east on Tuesday morning.

EXCURSION RETURNS TO PORT MOODY.

Until further notice return tickets from Victoria to Port Moody and Vancouver will be sold for Sundays trip of the Princess Louise at one fare—$3.50. Tickets on sale by D. R. MUNRO, passenger agent, C. P. N. Co. ONLY. *

THE ANCON.

Mr. J. C. Bartlett of Port Townsend was a passenger by the Idaho yesterday from Alaska and left this morning for his home. The Ancon sustained her injuries in the bay named after him. She began to fill rapidly after striking. There were no timbers broken; but merely knocked out of position. The damaged portion of the ship is about 30 feet long by 8 feet in width.

ALLEGED THEFT.

In the provincial court to-day before E. Johnson, S. M., John McGovern was charged with stealing a bundle of blankets and other articles from No. 1 Camp, Island Railway, near Four-mile House. The case was remanded for one week.

WHEN IS SHE A BRIDE?

The following two delicate and intricate questions have been propounded us by a writer signing himself "O Happy!"

Will you kindly devote a few lines of your paper to telling a few puzzled readers at what time of a woman's life does she assume the title of bride? Also how long is it customary or right to call her by such a title?

It is not for us to say at what time of life a woman may assume the title of bride. As a rule, all that a man has to do with the decision of that question concerns one woman only. However, no woman ought to assume the title of bride before she is 18, at least, and then not unless her parents or guardians approve; and even when she is 21, of legal age, she still should defer to the judgment of her elders. With that consideration acknowledged, the time when a woman should assume the title of a bride depends upon the moment when, in consequence of a happy harmony of purpose between her and some suitable man, young or old, she is pronounced a wife. We refrain from advising as to what time of life is the most appropriate for this ceremony; but to our injunction against marriage before 18, we will add "better late than never." She should be spoken of as a bride certainly a little longer than the endurance of the honeymoon. How long that should last depends upon the twain's matrimonial experience. Some marriages are blissfully spoken of as a "perpetual honeymoon," while others partake of a "cat and dog" honeymoon. Such is nature.
